Central and East dry buttermilk prices are steady this week. Contacts report tight quantities of buttermilk powder available, with little demand outside of contracts. End users say their contracts will carry them through the end of the year. Cream continues to be plentiful in both regions. Butter churning schedules are steady to strong as cream prices continue to stay low. Contacts say churning schedules are keeping buttermilk inventories at steady to strong levels. Drying schedules for buttermilk are light to steady this week before the winter holiday. Contacts say drying schedules may be slowed as workers take time off during the coming winter holidays.
