Just to give my opinion on raw milk pricing.

I think it is unfair to dairy producers how raw milk is being priced, with the experience we had the last few years. Farmers are being paid about the same as they were 25 years ago. Everything else keeps going up, such as feed fuel, etc.

There should be a new method to determine the dairy farmer's price, and this should be the dairy farmers cost of production.

Each dairy farmer could mail out a form to whoever determines the pricing, than take an average, of what was mailed. That should be the price for the following month.

If the market floods we should look into exporting rather than importing.

The question to me usually is. When importing milk ingredients, Do they have inspection like we do? Strict inspections should be made on imports. Milk produced in U.S. is in good quality if it passes inspection.

We want Quality Milk.
